The Common Problems of Theological Schools, by PROFESSOR WILLIAM ADAMS BROWN, of Union Theological Seminary.

SOME OPINIONS CONCERNING THE JOURNAL OF RELIGION

From a State Director of Religious Education:

"It seems to me your new journal is striking my sore places and immaturities as though you had very carefully diagnosed my condition. . . . I thought so highly of the journal that I told several of the men about it at the —— conference yesterday, and sought to get them to read the journal."

From a College President:

"I have looked over with very genuine interest this first number, and it seems to me to promise excellently."

From a Pastor:

"I expected a first-class journal, but I also expected that the first number might leave room for improvement—and I am afraid it cannot be improved. The first number is good enough, and leaves little room for improvement."

From the Editors of an influential Review:

"This note of congratulation is none the less hearty altho belated. The editors of the —— feel that the times and the needs of the religious world today call for just such a publication as the Journal of Religion. Any journal that has the courage of its convictions, is free from sectarian bias, stands for universal fellowship of the spirit, and holds up ideals that make for self-realization will fill an enviable place in the religious world. The first number of the Journal of Religion from a mechanical point of view gives evidence of fine discrimination, and from the religious side the articles are most rewarding."

Proceedings of the National Conference of Social Work

(Formerly, National Conference of Charities and Correction)

Forty-seventh Annual Session, Held in New Orleans, Louisiana
April 14-21, 1920

At the forty-seventh annual session of the National Conference of Social Work (formerly the National Conference of Charities and Correction), held in New Orleans in April, 1920, the president of the Conference, Mr. Owen R. Lovejoy, said in the opening address: "The race is old enough to have abolished poverty so that humanity could devote some of its energy to a higher pursuit than the mere search for food. But poverty has not been abolished. More money and effort will be expended this year than in any previous year in the world's history to alleviate the distresses of poverty and to cure injuries that have already been done. The world is in tragic need of social engineers, or adventurers into the rich realm of possibility and freedom. But they must be adventurers who are willing to teach and not to dictate."

This keynote to the discussions of the most significant meeting in the history of the Conference was repeated in many other addresses which were given by leaders in the various phases of philanthropic social work. Among the addresses contained in this volume are those by Jane Addams, on "The Spirit of Social Service"; Felix Adler, on "The Next Step to Be Taken by the National Child Labor Committee"; Hastings H. Hart, on "The Place of State Surveys in Framing State Legislation"; Sherman C. Kingsley, on "Interpretative Publicity"; C. J. Galpin, on "Signs of Rural Hope"; E. G. Routzahn, on "The Elements of a Social Educational Publicity Campaign"; and Robert E. Park, on "Foreign Language Press and Social Progress."

Now Ready

A Harmony of the Synoptic Gospels in Greek

By ERNEST D. BURTON and EDGAR J. GOODSPEED

$3.00, postpaid $3.15

☐ The problem of determining the relations of our first three gospels to one another, and ascertaining their sources, though studied for over a century, is one that is still but partially solved. Yet on its solution depends the decision of many important questions concerning early Christian thought and especially the teaching of Jesus. The purpose of this volume is to facilitate that careful comparison of the several gospels, sentence by sentence, even word by word, which is the first condition of success in the study of the mutual relation of the gospels, and an indispensable basis for advanced study of their contents.

Handbooks of Ethics and Religion

for College Classes and Adult Study-Groups

The Spread of Christianity in the Modern World, by EDWARD CALDWELL MOORE. $2.00, postpaid $2.15.

A survey of the history of missions since the beginning of the modern era. Depicts the missionary movement against the background of general history.

How the Bible Grew, by FRANK G. LEWIS. $1.50, postpaid $1.65.

The first single work to record the growth of the Bible from its beginning up to the present time.

The Life of Paul, by BENJAMIN W. ROBINSON. $1.50, postpaid $1.65.

This narrative moves rapidly through the apostle's successive difficult conflicts and powerful triumphs and furnishes a reliable guide to a study of Paul's career.

The Religions of the World, by GEORGE A. BARTON. $2.00, postpaid $2.15.

The author gives a keen and sympathetic interpretation of all the great religions of the world, and a summary of the chief facts regarding their origin and history. Popular presentation and scholarly accuracy combined.

The Psychology of Religion, by GEORGE A. COE. $2.00, postpaid $2.15.

There are few books which are adapted for use as college texts and are at the same time interesting reading for those outside of scholastic circles. But this book is one of that few.

The Story of the New Testament, by EDGAR JOHNSON GOODSPEED. $1.25, postpaid $1.35.

A clear exposition of the development of the New Testament based upon the definite thesis that "Christianity did not spring from the New Testament but the New Testament from Christianity."

The Origin and Growth of the Hebrew Religion, by HENRY T. FOWLER. $1.50, postpaid $1.60.

A remarkable exposition of religious phenomena from a fresh psychological standpoint, combining both structural and functional methods of approach.

The Ethics of the Old Testament, by HINCKLEY G. MITCHELL. $2.25, postpaid $2.40.

A comprehensive view of the development of ethics and morality among the Hebrew people—the nation that led the ancient world in an attempt to reach the good.
